NEW! Recycled Polypropylene Placemats

- Our poly placemats are 100% produced from recycled water bottles that would otherwise end up in a landfill.
- Recycling requires 88% less energy to produce than new polypropylene.
- One recycled placemat = 3.5 recycled water bottles.
- Pacific Merchants anticipates recycling 100,000 water bottles in 2025 (see page 31).

NEW! Artisan Recycled Glassware

- Produced in Tonalá, Mexico.
- Made from recycled Coca-Cola bottles
- Artisan mouth blown
- 100% recycled

Social Responsibility

- We give back to the local communities where our products are produced. Employment, free medical exams, and free school lunch programs are among the programs we support.
- We repurpose used shipping boxes by shredding cardboard into durable webbing and use it as packing material. This lowers our carbon footprint.

NEW! Introducing Pacific Merchants Artisan Eco-Glassware

- Hand made in Tonalá, Mexico, from 100% recycled Coca Cola bottles.
- Tonalá, Mexico is famous for mouth blown glassware since the 16th century.
- Tonalá glass rivals the glass designed and hand-made in Verona, Italy.
- Master craftsmen use traditional blown glass techniques as they blow through a metal pipe while twirling it with one hand. They simultaneously shape the molten glass at the other end while expertly achieving a swirl effect.

Watch as master craftsmen hand make glassware by blowing and molding red hot molten glass.

History of Tonalá: Glass Blowing Tradition

Glass blowing is a treasured art form among Mexican artisans with deep historical roots. The earliest glass pieces in North America were produced in Puebla, Mexico, around 1535 by artisans brought from Europe by Spanish colonizers. These artisans utilized simple tools, starting with molten glass and a long hollow pipe, a method that remains unchanged to this day. The craft has become a symbol of cultural heritage and identity in Tonalá, admired locally and internationally.

Why Pacific Merchants?

AcaciaWare™ and GoodWoods™ are responsibly forested with care. Responsibly forested means that our wood is harvested in an environmentally friendly and sustainable manner. We also sponsor and support tree replanting.

What Does Sustainability Mean?

- Harvesting rates and clearing sizes that do not exceed a forest's natural capacity to regenerate.
- Maintaining the natural forest conditions needed for wildlife and healthy ecosystems to function.
- Protecting and maintaining endangered species, plants, and rare forest types.
- No clearing of forests with slash and burn or replacing them with barren tree plantations.
- Helping workers, communities, and Indigenous people benefit from the forestry operation, and protecting their rights and interests. Free medical exams, school lunch programs and college scholarships are among the ways we give back to the local communities.

Why AcaciaWare™ ?

- AcaciaWare™ is handcrafted, hand turned from one solid piece of hardwood.
- Acacia trees grow up to 3 feet per year and can regrow 2-3 times during their lifetime, making them one of the most sustainable and renewable tree varieties.
- The hard grain of acacia resists penetration by liquids without picking up stains or odors.
- AcaciaWare™ is easy care! Simply wash the item with warm soapy water and air dry.

We Minimize Our Carbon Footprint Through Recycling.

We re-purpose used shipping boxes by shredding the cardboard into durable webbing and use it as packing material. The cardboard is often used a third time by our customers for their own shipping needs.

- Reducing Environmental Pollution: Polypropylene is widely used but often ends up in landfills or the environment due to low recycling rates. Recycling reduces the accumulation of this durable plastic, which can take hundreds of years to break down.
- Reducing Carbon Footprint: Recycling polypropylene uses up to 88% less energy compared to producing virgin plastic, significantly reducing greenhouse gas emissions. This helps combat climate change by lowering the carbon footprint of manufacturing processes.
- Preventing Microplastic Pollution: Polypropylene contributes to microplastic pollution when it breaks down into tiny particles in the environment. Recycling prevents this plastic from entering natural ecosystems, protecting soil, water and the food chain from contamination.
